Then Senator Balsinger moved the adoption of the second part of his resolution, that the railroad [committee illegible] present five members and [illegible] accepted Senator [illegible] these two be [illegible]

Senator Steck thought Balsinger [illegible] allowed to withdraw [illegible] as it was plainly a mistake, [illegible] would not budge an inch.

Matters were getting pretty [illegible] when Senator Adams [illegible] the whole question, the Senators Barela, Balsinger and White [illegible] appoint a committee of three to select two [illegible] to the railroads [illegible]

But no one felt any inclination to [illegible] this, so Senator Israel [illegible] that the railroads committee [illegible] ten members and be composed of the two committees of corporations and railroads, Senator Adams to be retained as chairman of the consolidated committee. Senator Steck seconded the motion. A little demur was made to this by Senator Merritt, who wanted the resolution laid over a day, but on ballot the resolution was adopted by a large majority. The senate then took a recess. The senate did no business this afternoon. Out of respect to the memory of ex-President R. B. Hayes, an adjournment until tomorrow at 10 o'clock was taken.

The Great Kansas Dispute.

TOPEKA, Jan. 18.—There are reports that in order to strengthen their forces in the fight for United States senator the Populists will resort to the unseating process in the senate. They have five contests there and as they are in the majority, they would easily put their contestors in the places of Messrs. Scott of Allen, Toinser of Neosho, Metcalf of Anderson, Danner of Harver or Thacher of Douglas.

The Republicans, however, have seven contests in the house and would of course retaliate should any Republican senators be unseated. While the Republicans are thus able to check the east end of the state house, they are unwilling to have the fight assume that shape. Senators have four years to serve and will vote on a senator in 1895, while house members only have two years to serve. The Republicans would lose by the unseating process.

The rival houses met together as usual this morning, but their proceedings were not marked with excitement and on the Republican side there was no interest whatever.

A large grist of bills and resolutions were introduced on both sides.

The Populists made a start which, if carried to conclusion, will land the solution of their complications in the supreme court. It is a bill to appropriate $50,000 for the World's Fair. The Populists chose to make the test on a bill of this kind, rather than on legislative appropriation acts, although the latter [illegible] come as soon as the [illegible] are short of funds and board bills are piling up. They offer the World's Fair bill because it is a popular measure and they hope to place the [illegible] responsibility of defeating it upon the Republicans if it be attacked in the supreme court.

A resolution was adopted by the Populists calling upon its elections committee to speedily settle the election contests [illegible] to refute [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] usual [illegible]

Both houses [illegible] this afternoon until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The N[ebraska Senator]ship.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 18.—The senatorial situation is beginning to assume definite shape. Legislators are beginning to realize [illegible] a protracted battle means, and are casting about for a way out of the difficulty. The Republicans will be [illegible] to [illegible] many of them will ever vote for a Democrat or Populist. The Democrats have not yet decided what to do. The independents will [illegible] to-morrow and there is no doubt that Powers will be the nominee. He will thus be given a chance to prove his claim that he can draw from the Democrats. If he makes no gain after several votes he will be withdrawn and [illegible] given a chance. THE FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS

They Will Be Simple and Unostentatious — A Friend's Fitting Testimony to the Worth of the Ex-President.

[illegible] Jan. 18.—[illegible] the funeral [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] Rev. Mr. Bashford, of this city [illegible] [illegible] afternoon [illegible] of Mrs. Hayes. Rev. J. W. Bashford, president of Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware, will conduct the services and it is probable that the local G. A. R. may take part.

A large number of telegrams are pouring in upon the members of the Hayes family. Among them are messages of condolence from the president, Secretary Foster and also from the living members of Mr. Hayes cabinet.

The state of Ohio comes to the front in showing its regard and honor for the distinguished man that has just passed to the silent majority. The message from the living members of the Hayes cabinet are from William Evarts, John Sherman, Alexander Ramsey, Nathan Goff, R. W. Thompson, D. M. Key and Carl Schurz.

Governor Foraker telegraphed: "Mrs. Foraker unites with me in tendering sincere sympathy."

Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania telegraphed: "I have just read of the death of your father with profound sorrow. Pennsylvania mourns with you and your family the loss of a brave soldier and wise statesman."

Carl Schurz said: "Accept my profound sympathy in your great bereavement. Your father's noble character as a statesman and patriot will constantly rise in popular appreciation as time passes."

Hon. William A. Courtney of Charleston, S. C., telegraphs: "My family beg to assure you of their sincere sympathy in your bereavement."

Hon. Fred W. Seward: "I have read and with profound regret and deep sympathy of your affliction."

THE TRIBUTE OF A FRIEND.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The following tribute to the memory of the late ex-President Hayes, by William Henry Smith, general manager of the Associated Press, a life-long friend, appears in The Evening Journal:

"General Hayes' domestic life was one of the most beautiful that the world has ever witnessed. He was a wise father, an affectionate husband and a devoted friend. What Mrs. Hayes was in society the American people know. He admired her almost extravagantly, and since her death she has occupied his thoughts more than any other subject. He and his wife were idolized by the soldiers because they spent their lives with them and cared for them in the tenderest manner. The affection of the common soldier for General Hayes has been constantly manifested since the close of the war, not only by his annual election to honorary positions in the different [illegible] organizations with which he was connected, but by almost daily pilgrimages made to his home at Spiegel Grove. At that mansion there was always room, food and sympathy and money for the soldier.

"In official life, General Hayes was a model administrative officer, and here I might remark that he never sought an office and declined many.

"His life since the close of his administration has been a perfect one in propriety and a valuable one in usefulness.

"The country has not understood the measure of the ability or the man. The time will come when it may all be made clear without injustice to any."

AN ANECDOTE OF THE EX-PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, Jan 18.—An incident of the Grand Army parade in Washington last September illustrates the touching simplicity of the whole life and character of ex-President Hayes, whose death was received here this morning with expressions of great sorrow. Standing in a group of distinguished officials in the midst of the reviewing stand, fronting the treasury department, the [illegible] of the foreign ministers [illegible] his [illegible] called to General Hayes, who with [illegible] and flushed face thrown well back so that the sunlight fell upon it and his snow-white locks, the ex-president was trudging along with precise martial step, keeping time with his old comrades of the state of Ohio. It was entirely unaffected and caused the foreign minister to remark: "What a spectacle for the Old World is this. By this act to-day your ex-president has demonstrated to the world the stability of your [illegible] and simplicity of your whole political system."

Ex-President Hayes' part in the memorable parade that day was to him a source of great personal pride. It seemed to give him more pleasure than any other event of his whole life to march patiently along in line with men who had carried the muskets in the regiments, obeying strictly the order of his post commander.

An Oklahoma Convention.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Jan. 18.—The Cherokee strip and the Oklahoma convention here today was attended by 500 delegates from St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Topeka, Wichita, Omaha, Des Moines, Fort Worth, Denver, and every city and county on the southern Kansas border and in Oklahoma and Indian territories. It was 4 o'clock when the convention was called to order. Witten McDonald of Kansas City is permanent chairman, Governor Campbell of St. Louis, ex-Governor Crittenden of Kansas City, Mayor Clements of Wichita, Governor [illegible] of Oklahoma, United States District Attorney S[illegible], Attorney-general Boyd of the Chickasaw, and fifteen other citizens of the south-west were chosen vice-presidents and A. Speeches have been made by Witten McDonald and Governor Crittenden of Kansas City, Governor Campbell of St. Louis, Mayor Clements of Wichita, Horace Speed, Major Gordon, Lillie the Indian, and others.

The resolutions passed to-night demand immediate opening of the Cherokee strip and other Indian lands aggregating 18,000,000 acres, the abolishment of all tribal governments, the compelling of the Indians to adopt the ways of civilization, and the admission of Oklahoma and the Indian territories as one grand state, without delay, and the throwing open to [illegible] of the [illegible] empire now almost a wilds.

Smugglers Caused the Trouble.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Senor Carono of the City of Mexico is at the Auditorium. He says that all the trouble near the boundary has been caused by an organized band of smugglers who were successful in engaging the troops in one quarter while they practiced their smuggling in another. "At one time during the administration of President Diaz," said the senor, "the smugglers became so numerous that the president issued a proclamation stating that all smugglers who would present themselves to the head of the revenue department would be forgiven for past offenses and be given profitable employment in the custom house. Many of the smugglers took advantage of this generous offer and were given good positions under the government. A brigade was also organized whose purpose it was to capture and punish those who had not given up the business. This plan was successful and smuggling was becoming rare along the United States border until the Mexican government reduced the salaries of the reformed smugglers. Then, one by one they deserted their offices and engaged in their old customs. They are now fully organized along the Rio Grande and conduct their unlawful business most profitably."

The Wyoming Cattle Cases.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Jan. 18.—The proceedings in the case of the cattlemen were again pushed vigorously to-day, forty were examined this forenoon and one man was retained.

There was a lively discussion going on among the residents of Johnson county who are here attending the much talked of trial. Mr. Bennett, the prosecuting attorney of that county, is here and is watching the proceedings closely. Mr. Bennett has been asked by a large number of his people to discontinue the proceedings, for the reason that it is heaping a large expense on the county and cannot possibly amount to a conviction, even if the jury is secured.

Mr. Bennett is weighing the matter and will, at the proper time, say what he will do. It is told on the street that if the trial is discontinued the legislature will [illegible] the bill for relief of Johnson county. It is hardly likely that any disposition will be made of the case before a senator is elected.

The Ohio Frozen.

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 18.—The Ohio river is still frozen solid from Cairo to Pittsburg. On account of the falls here this was the last point on the river to be closed by the ice. About a week ago an immense gorge of broken ice formed about the piers of the new Jeffersonville bridge about a mile above the falls, and this was soon followed by a solid coating of ice over the whole surface of the river. The steamboats were safely ensconced in the canal, where they lie tightly frozen in. Coal barges containing a half million bushels of coal are moored above the gorge. Neither boats or barges are in danger now, but the gravest fears are felt that when the ice breaks up many of the river craft will be crushed by the immense mass of ice which would be turned loose in the current. The ice is nearly two feet thick, while on the gorge it is piled up twenty feet high. Pedestrians have used the ice as a highway between this city and Jeffersonville, Ind., for several days, and today and yesterday a number of sleighs and even light wagons and carts [crossed] over. Foot [illegible] have [illegible] erected in the mid[dle illegible] of the river [illegible] are doing a thriving [business] with the half-frozen [illegible] Taking advantage of being beyond the jurisdiction of the law, "craps" and other games are in full blast in [illegible] and a prize fight is billed for to-night for one of the [illegible]

Suffering in Quebec.

QUEBEC, Jan. 18.—Never within memory has Canada suffered so continuously from severe cold weather as during this month. For twenty-six days the thermometer has been below zero, sometimes reaching 15 to 20 degrees below. The suffering is great. Numbers of people have been frozen to death, some including a man at Levis, in their beds.

Music for the Fair.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—After the usual [illegible] session of the directors' executive committee to-day this brief notice appeared in the report of the proceedings: "On the recommendation of the liberal arts committee, $257,000 was appropriated to defray the expense of music during the Fair. The purposes for which the appropriations were made, the elaborate scheme of the bureau of music, and in fact all of the details of Music during the fair."

This money for the most part is to be [spent] in bringing the finest bands in the world to Chicago to give free open air concerts on the World's Fair grounds. Six of the greatest bands in Europe are to be secured to give two concerts a day. Each of them will remain at the fair a month. This band about 100 strong is so perfectly balanced that the director [illegible] the director that he would not consent to the fair if compelled to leave one man behind.

The Royal band of Austria, the emperor's pride, is another band that will be secured with the appropriation made yesterday. The emperor is reported to have refused to allow his favorite musicians to make the journey to Chicago when first asked to send them. Afterward he consented. The four remaining bands to be secured from Europe are said to be about the same grade.

In addition to these, two of the [great] bands in America will be secured to give popular concerts during the entire period of the exposition. [A] Serious Wreck.

It is said that several persons were more or less injured, but by some miracle none were killed outright. Walter [illegible], a miner living in Hadleytown, a suburb of this city, was terribly crushed and it is feared he will die. It is impossible to obtain the names of all injured and the full particulars at this time. The cause of the wreck is unknown, but it is said that some of the trainmen were new ones and unacquainted with the road. All the injured men were brought to this city and cared for.

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Money on call has been easy, ranging from 2 to 3, last loan at 2½, and closing offered at 2½.

Notwithstanding the slight set-back given to the stock market yesterday by the liberal realizations and the operations of the bear traders to-day, the street was full of confidence, even in the face of threatened outgo of gold on Saturday. The increase in the note issue in the Bank of France is expected to facilitate the movement of gold to that center, and the scarcity of commercial bills here preserves a stiffness in exchange rates which keeps the market up to the exporting point or nearly so all the time. To offset the influences there is a remarkably easy money market with practical assurance of its continuance for a long time to come and rates are already down to an extremely low figure; call loans being effected to-day at 2½ per cent, while the feeling that gold shipments are imminent prevents a further decline. A light demand exists modified somewhat by the present activity in Wall street, by lenders now asking customers. The street still retains the hope of the repeal of the Sherman law at this [sess]ion, but in connection with this it is interesting to know that the value of silver produced during the past year decreased nearly 6 per cent from that of the previous year, and while the stock of silver at New York held on certificates has been reduced to [illegible] 700,000 [illegible] the offerings to the government are small and the price of the commodity [illegible] [illegible]

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES

The death of Mr Hayes removes one of the only two living ex Presidents of the United States. Since his retirement from office Mr Hayes has been living in retirement, only engaging in philanthropic and humanitarian movements. As a trustee of the Peabody and Slater funds, he has done a great deal for the cause of education and his wise counsel will be missed by his fellow trustees and helpers.

Mr Hayes was not a great man but he made a pretty good President. He did something for civil service reform and he was one of the few Presidents who has not used the offices at his disposal as a means to secure a renomination. Justice has scarcely been done to him because the more bitter and violent Democrats have always maintained that his title to the office of President was tainted with fraud. The accusation came with a bad grace from the party that proposed and carried through the act providing for an electoral commission but consistency is the last virtue that one need look for in the Democratic party. Mr Hayes's title was as good as that of any President who ever served.

The policy adopted by President Hayes toward the South ought to have endeared him to the ruling class in that part of the country, for it was he who began the let-alone policy which has delivered the South over to aristocratic domination and enabled the Democratic leaders to suppress almost all traces of Republicanism in all the Gulf States. As a matter of fact, however that policy while it made Mr Hayes extremely unpopular with Southern Republicans, aroused no sentiment of gratitude in Southern Democrats. They are not a people that understand magnanimity or concession, they take it for weakness.

As a private citizen, the life of Mr Hayes has been irreproachable in every respect, and has set an example for all future ex Presidents.

Probably the greatest public services of Mr Hayes were rendered as a soldier in the war of the rebellion and as Governor of Ohio. In both capacities he showed himself courageous and honorable. His war record was excellent. His firm stand for honest money in Ohio at the time when the Greenback craze was sweeping over the country saved that State to the Republicans, and has helped to keep it in line ever since. Taking his life as a whole Mr Hayes has certainly deserved the grateful remembrance of his countrymen, and especially of his fellow-citizens of Ohio.

THE GRAVES CASE.

Whatever may be the opinion of the guilt or innocence of the accused, the Graves case remains one of the most unsatisfactory and disappointing in the history of our criminal law. It is hard to say whether the situation is worse when viewed under the supposition of his innocence or of his guilt, and from the dilemma there is no escape.

If Dr Graves was innocent, a terrible punishment has been visited upon one who was undeserving of it. He has passed month after month in prison, he has been put to an enormous expense and he now goes forth with his life's prospects seriously impaired and the suspicion of an awful crime forever resting over his head. Besides this the state has been put to a great expense without any adequate result. If Dr Graves be innocent this case has shown the utter inadequacy of our legal system to defend the innocent from attacks upon his property and his reputation and to acquit him from criminal charges.

On the other hand if he is guilty he has, as Attorney Stevens remarks, been acquitted with less punishment than attends an ordinary thief and acquitted on technical grounds brought up by cunning lawyers whose services depend on the amount of money possessed by the accused. Mr Stevens statement that 65 per cent. of the criminal cases brought to the supreme court have been reversed and that in the published reports of cases since Colorado has been a state, the supreme court of the state has sustained but one conviction of murder in the first degree, is worthy of the most serious consideration. It is well that cases involving liberty and life should be conducted in such a way as fully to secure the rights of the accused but if these technicalities have reached such a point as to make it practically impossible for a district court to conduct a trial in accordance with the law it is high time either to educate our judges and prosecuting attorneys to a higher standard or else to simplify the methods of procedure, so as to permit the conviction of the guilty. There is too much reason to believe that at the present time the question of whether a man is to be punished for a serious crime depends not upon whether a man is guilty but upon what lawyers he employs and how much money he has at their disposal. People differ in their opinions as to Dr Graves guilt or innocence, but an overwhelming number believe that if he had been a poor man he would have been hung. Such a belief does not tend to advance respect for the law or to promote morality among the people.

In close connection with this case is the question of capital punishment and yet the difficulty of enforcing that species of punishment is very far from the main lesson of the present instance. The difficulty in the present case is not that a certain man escaped hanging but that in a great many cases, of which the present is a striking instance, the courts are unable to determine the guilt or innocence of the accused, that legal procedure is so blocked with technicalities that ordinary courts are unable to carry on their proceedings in accordance with law and finally that the result of a trial is primarily determined by the money available, not for evidence but for fees to legal quibblers.

Such a condition of affairs surely tends to lawlessness and to lynch law or private vengeance. The courts of the state owe it to themselves and to the people to find a remedy and to apply it.

TWO MORE NAVAL VESSELS.

The work of making our new navy goes bravely on. Secretary Tracy has just awarded the contracts for two new ships, one the armored cruiser Brooklyn the other the line of battle ship Iowa to the William Cramp & Sons Ship and Engine Building company of Philadelphia. There were four bidders, the other three being the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company and the Bath Iron Works of Maine. The Cramps bid for both vessels was the lowest and as the law requires the acceptance of the lowest bid from a good and responsible party the contracts are ... awarded to them.

The Brooklyn is a sister ship to the New York but larger than the latter by 100 tons, or about 11 per cent. The Iowa will be the biggest battleship yet ordered being 11,200 tons displacement, ten per cent larger than the Maine or the Indiana. She will be a seagoing vessel and able to hold her own pretty well against anything afloat.

The cost of these vessels, although they are considerably larger, will be no more than was paid for the others already mentioned. The reduction, Secretary Tracy says is due to decreased cost of material produced largely by competition among our shipbuilding firms, and not at all to any present or proposed decrease in the wages of the workmen employed.

The navy is now tolerably well provided with cruisers. Its weakness is especially in battleships. With half a dozen more like the Iowa, we should be fairly provided although not well enough even then to compete with any first rate power.

THE BIMETALLIC LEAGUE

A call has been issued for a meeting of the American Bimetallic League at Washington on the twenty second of February. The purpose of the meeting is to influence Congress in favor of immediate free coinage, and against the repeal of the Sherman act of 1890 without a free coinage substitute.

The term Bimetallic League is a misnomer for the organization. The president of it is A J Warner who will possibly be remembered by some of our readers as a greenbacker fifteen years ago. The immediate object of the League is to secure the admission of silver to coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1. The ulterior object is to secure the emission of an amount of money limited only by what its members consider to be the necessities of the people.

Such a convention as is to be held on Washington's birthday will do the cause of bimetallism no good.

A USELESS PROTEST

The City Club of New York, which includes a number of very prominent Democrats, among them ex Mayor Hewitt and Mr James C Carter the leader of the New York bar, has held a public meeting to denounce some of Mayor Gilroy's appointments. The City Club would have done more effectual work if it had opposed Mr Gilroy publicly during the campaign and put the full weight of its support to Mr Einstein. Its members must have known perfectly well what sort of a man Gilroy is, and what sort of people he would be likely to appoint as public officials. They can do no good by "kicking" now but if they had worked against Gilroy in October they might have accomplished something. But that is too often the way with New York "independents." They keep still during the campaign and go to the polls and vote the straight Democratic ticket, and then when they find out that they have helped to put in office a set of thieves and rascals, they hold a meeting and protest.

Mr R C Kerens of St Louis, member of the Republican National Committee from Missouri talks very frankly in a recent issue of the New York Mail and Express. He says the National Committee ought to get together at once and elect a new chairman. The Republicans ought to go to work at once he thinks, and the work ought to be directed systematically and intelligently by a leader in whom the party would have confidence. Mr Kerens is right. The need for organization is instant. If the Republican party is to win in 1896 the selection of a chairman ought not to be put off till July of that year. A new chairman is needed now and if he will accept it, the man for the place is James S Clarkson.

It is a great pleasure to be able to announce, as THE GAZETTE does to day, that arrangements have been made for some readings in this city by Mr Thomas Nelson Page. Mr Page is one of our very best writers of short stories and his reading is of the most perfect kind, unstudied natural free and self possessed. Socially Mr Page is a most charming and delightful man and we congratulate in advance all of our readers who are to be so fortunate as either to meet him personally or to hear him read.

The items of the Sundry Civil bill published this morning show that Mr Holman is making a desperate effort at retrenchment. Some of the cuts in appropriations are not at all economical in the long run like those on the survey of the public lands and on the army posts but Mr Holman is bound to keep the appropriations below a billion if he can no matter who or what may suffer.

The legal House of Representatives in Kansas has now 71 members or 1 more than the "rump house" recognized by Governor Lewelling. We believe that the danger of violence is now about over and that before long the legal House will have to be recognized as such even by the Governor.

The present severe shaking up of the New York police force by Superintendent Byrnes appears to be a virtual acknowledgement of the truth of many of the charges that have been made by Dr Parkhurst and The Mail and Express.

An Invaluable Number

With characteristic enterprise and ability the Colorado Springs GAZETTE issued a New Year's edition of ninety-six columns, together with a well-executed and most accurate map of the Cripple Creek mining district. We have not seen for many a day an edition of a newspaper so full of interesting and valuable information. It tells of El Paso county's mineral deposits its water facilities the price of land agricultural resources everything, in short, which an immigrant who contemplates moving to Colorado and settling anywhere in the banner county of the state would like to know. These are the kinds of publications which bear fruits. They are invaluable if they are extensively circulated, and no investment could possibly pay the people of Colorado Springs better than to scatter some forty or fifty thousand of this edition of THE GAZETTE broadcast throughout the country.—Business Bulletin.

Cleveland and Wildcat Banks

It is apparently a good deal of the purpose ... that Mr Cleveland regards with especial favor the plank of the platform which proposes to ... the restoration of state bank currency. Some of his adherents are now engaged in running about the country trying to ... this thing in that part ... The ... that Mr Cleveland ... in regard the ... of the national banks ... They are trying to arrange ... have the land deluged with paper money issued by irresponsible state banks and much of which necessarily will rest not upon value of any kind, but upon mere wind. It will be strange indeed, if the American people shall be misled by this foolishness. Let them contrast the solid and wonderful prosperity of the nation since a free currency came in again with the prostration and ruin of 1860, '60, when wildcat money was in use and they may perhaps perceive in what direction their interests lie. It is worth while to note that the repeal of the state bank tax has, all along, been supposed to be displeasing to Mr Cleveland. He has warmed up to that part of his platform just as he is likely to warm up to the theory that protection is wholly unconstitutional.—The Manufacturer, Philadelphia.

The Silver Question.

To the Editor

SIR —In the twenty-first verse of the tenth chapter of the First Book of Kings we are told that all King Solomon's drinking vessels were of gold and all the vessels of the house of the forests of Lebanon were of pure gold, none were of silver it was nothing accounted of in the days of Solomon. In the twenty-seventh verse we read that Solomon made silver to be in Jerusalem as stones. I do not propose to discuss bimetallism, but the above quotations may be interesting. I was talking last week to two gentlemen who are considerably interested in the silver question, and neither of them was aware that there had been such a depreciation of silver nearly three thousand years ago.

At that early period Egypt was a large importer of silver from Spain and Arabia, and Solomon used his silver to purchase chariots, horses, and linen yarn in Egypt. A chariot cost 600 shekels of silver and a horse 150, while the king's merchants received the linen yarn "at a price."

There is nothing new under the sun, and if any of the old Egyptian records deal with the difficulties arising from the depreciation of silver referred to some of your readers will, perhaps, tell us how the old sages proposed dealing with the silver question of that day.

I am, etc.,

London, Dec. 26. B. S.

To the Editor

SIR—I am not aware that any learned treatise dealing with the difficulties arising from the depreciation of silver has been discovered as yet among the papyri of Egypt. But there is better evidence of how the ancient people dealt with this difficulty, namely, their gold and silver coins which exist in our museums. Though, as your correspondent "B. S." remarks in The Times of to-day "silver was nothing accounted of in the days of Solomon, and "Solomon made silver to be as stones in Jerusalem" yet the ratio between silver and gold, when coined, was strictly maintained, and the commercial transactions between Palestine, Phoenicia, Egypt, Persia and Greece seem never to have been disturbed by the depreciation of one of the two metals. After weighing thousands of gold and silver coins Professor Brugsch has shown that the ratio between silver and gold in the Egyptian coins was always maintained at 1 to 12½ while Dr Brandes has shown that in Babylonia and in all the countries which adopted the Babylonian standard it was 1 to 13⅓.

There have been slight fluctuation and there are instances of debased coinage in ancient as well as modern times. But for international trade and tribute the old Babylonian standard was maintained for a very long time.

How, in spite of the uncertain quantity of silver and gold in the markets of the ancient world, in spite of the varying cost of production and of the fluctuating demand for either silver or gold at different times and in different countries, this standard was maintained is difficult to say, unless we suppose that the right of coining money was reserved for the king and that in ancient times his warranty was considered of greater value than it is in our days of free coinage and slight seigniorage. Whatever it was, the fact remains that from the Sixteenth Century B.C or at all events, if we restrict our remarks to coined money from the Seventh Century B.C to nearly our own time the appreciation of gold has not been more than 1 2-3, from 13 1-3 to 15. We know that at various periods in the history of the world—for instance at the time of the Persian wars, of the discovery of the East Indies, and of the conquest of America—there was a sudden influx of one or the other of the precious metals yet the common sense of the great commercial nations of antiquity in their anxiety to safeguard the interests both of their wholesale and retail traders seems to have been able to maintain the respect for the relative value of silver and gold coin if safeguarded by the warranty of the state.

I am not going to rush into the question of bimetallism where wrens make prey and eagles dare not perch, but remain, 'mieato et spe', Your obedient servant,

Oxford Dec 27. F MAX MULLER.

If the wire now in use could be greatly reduced in diameter without a corresponding reduction in tensile strength the immediate possibilities of telephoning would be enormously widened.

The experts own that there is an error somewhere in the formula by which they determine the possible limits of telephoning and they are hard at it trying to find the error and to get rid of it. Meanwhile if somebody will find a better medium than hard drawn copper wire another great stride will be possible. The experts say however that no such medium is likely to be discovered.

Telephoning across the Atlantic is a theoretical possibility and nobody knows how soon it may become an accomplished fact. No syllable has ever ... between the two continents by way of the existing cables, but a clever expert has suggested a method of getting at least one note through and another man has taken out a patent on the process.

The immediate difficulty of telephoning by the present Atlantic cables lies in the fact that they work too slowly. To ... it the note C to the human ear by the existing Atlantic cable it would be necessary to send back and forth 256 vibrations in a second. But the cables cannot come anywhere near such a feat. The patented process of sending an American musical C to Great Britain involves the use of the phonograph.

The scheme is to sound the note into a phonograph at this end of the line and set the phonograph going very slowly, so that the vibrations of the note which would be inaudible to human ears shall be communicated to the cable, transmitted under the ocean and received on another slowly revolving phonograph beyond the ocean. The record made, the phonograph could be set a going at a rapid rate of speed and the note would be ground out with sufficiently rapid vibrations to be audible to British ears. The process would be a very slow one, however, and as all the mechanical appliances would have to be very nicely adjusted and at great expense the experiment has not yet been tried.

It may be tried one of these days, however, and the more sanguine electrical ... prophesy telephoning between Europe and America. Nobody, however, is going to lay an ... only ex... ...reeable just for fun or even in the interest of electrical science, and in the ... state of the art of telephoning ... a cable to Europe could not be a commercial success.

PREPARING TO OPEN THE FAIR.

Grover Cleveland Will Touch the Button, The People Will Do the Rest.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHICAGO Jan 12.—While renewed activity and energy are with the opening of the new year being manifested in all departments pertaining to the World's Columbian exposition there is one committee in particular that believes in taking time by the forelock and is carrying out the belief in practice. This is the committee on ceremonies. The recollections of the glories of dedication week are still with us. It seems but yesterday since that magnificent civic parade moved over our spacious thoroughfares since Manufactures hall resounded with the acclaim of the greatest audience ever gathered under a covered roof.

But although the recollection still dwells with us Dedication Day is a thing of the past. Inauguration Day is before us in the near future. It matters not that ground has yet to be broken for the ornate structure in which it is proposed that the inauguration ceremonies shall be held. Such a little thing as that doesn't trouble anybody so long as the ground itself is actually there. That the programme should be framed before the building in which that programme is to be carried out has actually begun to rear its walls and only four months to spare may be regarded as simply another illustration of the goahead activity of the United States in general and of the metropolis of the west in particular.

Wind and weather contractors and walking delegates and various other concomitants permitting the ceremonies that are to signalize the formal opening of the exposition to the people of the world will be held in Festival hall. The site of this structure when it is a true ... will be on the west side of the lagoon ... of the Transportation building, near by the Administration building, and very of access to the Sixty ... with ... entrance.

Just now the ground is occupied by a ... restaurant, within which at noon Major ... P. Handy may often be found diligently engaged in the ... of ... the ... of national ... out of a bowl of mock turtle ... exploring with a fork the mysteries of a ... of pork and beans while ... on the other side of the ... Director General George R. Davis or ... may be cracking jokes or ... of milk or ... The ... of life. [illegible]

[illegible] ...kely ... it ... and ...

Open air exercises on the 1st of May might mean colds and catarrh and that ... la grippe and its consort pneumonia and bronchitis and numberless other ills to thousands if not tens of thousands of patriotic Americans. And so an open air ... has been tabooed ... It would be a ... thing for the medical fraternity but neither the Illinois nor the National Medical association has offered a percentage on the professional fees that such a programme would bring forth, and hence it has no place in the list of concessions.

That energetic secretary of the committee on ceremonies Colonel E. C. Culp to whom much of the success of dedication week may be fairly attributed expresses the opinion that a quarter of a million people will pass through the gates of Jackson park on opening day. Hence if his estimate comes anywhere near being correct it follows that 245 000 of them will get neither within ... nor hearing of the special exercises, although that entire number and as many more may gather in Machinery hall and the other structures and look upon the machinery as it starts in motion from the pressure upon the electric button.

Of the 5 000 more fortunate individuals one fifth will ... the official guests of the national ... ... These may be classified in this order President and members of the cabinet, the diplomatic corps the members of both branches of congress, the members of the supreme court the national commission, the board of lady managers the city council of Chicago, the ... commissioners, the board of managers of the government exhibit and last, but not ... the representatives of the press.

The other 4 000 spectators will according to the present programme put up five dollars apiece for the privilege. It will be cheap at that for at the Paris exposition the price of tickets ranged from two to twelve dollars according to location and for days before the inauguration they commanded a premium of 100 per cent. The exercises will be brief dignified and at the same time impressive. Grover Cleveland will press the button. The people will do the rest.

CRIPPLE CREEK LETTER

From the Regular Gazette Correspondent at the Gold Fields

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan 18.—Fourteen carloads of high grade ore a week are being shipped ... to Denver Pueblo and Kokomo.

The receiver's receipt of the Pharmacist lode has been filed by the Pharmacist Mining company.

C A B... purchased a quarter interest in the Grotto lode, on Bull mountain, for $1,450. The Jeff Davis Mining company has bought a similar interest in the same lode of N H Cote for $1,900, and a half interest in the same of Robert A Magee and M A Kuehlein.

A. C. Hickman has bought of C R. Rickett a quarter interest in the Little Ellen lode, the consideration being $300.

The last shipment of ten tons of ore from the Eclipse lode ran rather over $162 to the ton.

Mr. R A F Penrose of Philadelphia, one of the professors of the Leland Stanford university has been making a short stay in the camp. This gentleman is a known metallurgist and geologist.

The Dearborn is shipping about a car load of ore a day. There are few properties in Cripple Creek that can compare with this either in the value or the quantity of its output.

Mr J R. Tomlinson is commencing the erection of a twenty five stamp mill at the junction of Gr... and Beaver. The capacity of the old mill at Beaver Park is about to be increased. Mr Tomlinson will be associated with two others in the new mill.

Several accidents have occurred within the last few days. In the case of James McGeary employed in the construction of the new French stamp mill in Squaw Gulch death has resulted from his injuries. While wheeling a barrow full of rock it struck against some obstruction and the shock while throwing him to the ground caused a rupture of the diaphragm. McGeary who came from Pueblo, was about 40 years of age.

The Wilson Creek country is a very promising district. Occasional strikes are being reported and much activity is being displayed in the region.

They have secured control of 10,000 acres of oil lands in Rio Blanco county along the White river and propose to begin active work in obtaining oil and gas in the near future.

The new High school clock has arrived and will be placed in its position in the tower in a few days by the Howard company. It is expected that the clock will be regulated so as to strike from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. and during the night the striker will be detached. This clock will regulate a number of small clocks throughout the building.

Mr. D. S. Wegg, president of the Northern Pacific and Wisconsin Central railroads, and a party of New York capitalists, are expected in the city to morrow or Saturday. They will attend a meeting of the Deerhorn company in Denver and will then visit various camps throughout the state for the purpose of investing in mining properties.

The Woman's Educational society of Colorado college have made arrangements to have readings by Mr. Thos. Nelson Page some time during next month. Full particulars of the time and place of the readings will be given later. The Harness Gazette, published at Rome, N. Y., one of the most influential and widely read trade papers of the east, contains a note from Cincinnati giving the news of the return home from Colorado Springs of Samuel C. Wendt, after a sojourn of nine months. Mr Wendt is a member of one of the largest firms in Cincinnati. The article tells how greatly he improved in health and gained in weight. It contains further a glowing description of the climate and scenic attractions of the Pike's Peak region.

That Charles H. Hoyt's admirers are numerous in this city is evidenced by the already heavy demand for seats for "A Trip to Chinatown," at the opera house on Monday evening. "A Trip to Chinatown" is a farce comedy pure and simple, and is intended merely to furnish an evening's entertainment. It has been, financially, the greatest success that Mr Hoyt has ever engineered. Its ... run in New York at the Madison Square theater is without precedent. No other farce comedy, either by Mr Hoyt or any other author, ever succeeded in holding the attention of the New York public for over half the length of time. The piece will be presented here with a cast including most of the original company.

Mr Woodworth, Dr. Smith, Mr. Nye and others interested in the Green Mountain Falls company went up to the resort yesterday, accompanied by Mr. Earle, manager of the mining interests at that point, to inspect the work being done in the claims there. The condition of the company at the present time is a very satisfactory one, there being no liabilities of any kind with 500,000 shares of treasury and 203,500 shares of common stock in the treasury. The company has decided to push the work of the Mammoth Tunnel right along and to purchase considerable property on the line of the tunnel. Mayor Bond of Boulder and Aldermen J. W. Day, Theo. Neiderhold, F. J. Whitney and N. W. Wells were in the city yesterday, inspecting the sewer system of Colorado Springs. They were driven over the lines by City engineer Reid, and Sewer inspector Green. They were pleased at the completeness and good appointments of the system. The city of Boulder intends to put in an eight or nine mile sewer system, probably from plans by City engineer Reid of this city.

The Western Trail, the paper published by the Rock Island railroad, contains an appreciative notice of "Colorado Springs and Its Famous Scenic Environs." It calls the book a work of great merit and describes it at length. An editorial mention of the publication refers to the notice and states that it is in no sense an advertisement. The notice is given to the book because it answers many questions constantly asked the editor of The Trail. The periodical has a very wide circulation.

Electrically Guarded.

Many visitors to the Metropolitan Museum of Art wonder at the apparent absence of guard against theft and think how easy it would be to rifle almost any of the cases of their valuable contents. Each of these cases is guarded, however, by a small wire which connects with the office and also with a large gong in the basement. Each of the cases in the room which contains the Moses-Lazarus collection of porcelain, miniatures and other valuable objects is connected with these electrical wires, so that if any person should attempt to force open a lid the signal would be given at once. The same arrangement is made for the safety of most of the other cases.—New York Herald.

Dividing the Swag.

The prisoner was in the police court for stealing a pocketbook and a shyster interviewed him.

"You want a lawyer to defend you, I suppose?" he said insinuatingly.

"I'd as soon have one as not," replied the prisoner, "if it doesn't cost too much."

"Well, I'll only charge you ten dollars."

"Thunderation!" exclaimed the prisoner, "there was only eleven dollars in the pocketbook and you don't want more than half of it, do you?"—Detroit Free Press.
